Foreword

Meditating on the past that we may visualize the future, summoning the tangible that we may disclose the intangible, interpreting the immortal that we may comprehend the ephemeral, learning life that we may live it better

To the Memory of
Daniel Alliston DuPre

1848-1930

Who here lived and loved, labored and achieved, desired and obtained; a spirit that signified glory, an ability that conquered greatness, a soul that attained heaven

Preface

Modernizing is our means of portraying here: the thoughtful man guiding with a helpful hand, the experimenting of the scientist broadening human horizon, the ancient sage contributing ever to the knowledge of his age. While visualizing the glory of the past, we are projecting into the possibilities of the future; recalling deeds from obscurity, yet lengthening the conquest of futurity

Class Poem

*We have mingled here together, making ties of friendship true,
Proving life still more enchanting by each motif we review.
New truths we sought have told us success will be achieved,
If we keep the ardent spirit Wofford boys always received.
Many times the goal seems farthest when it's just beyond our eye:
When the task is almost done some give up and only sigh;
So each day a little further, we must keep the spirit up,
He who stops along the way might have won the victor's cup.
Let us keep adherent friendship ever nearer to our hearts,
From the wondrous harp of life strings of love will not depart.
We have battles here to fight, many foes we may subdue;
There's a voice that cheers us on, charming words it speaks so true.
We have sought the finer fancies, touching thoughts of comfort, too,
Learning truths that give us joys, though we toil the whole day through.
We have tried to grasp the visions in the world's broad field of knowledge,
And the road just lures us on as we part from this dear College.
There's a journey just ahead, have you stopped to visualize?
Truth in all its noble splendor lifts your aim above the skies.
We may dip into the future, rugged hills are there to climb:
When our reach exceeds our grasp, life is all the more sublime.
Every hero does his deeds when enlightened views disclose,
Nothing comes through perfect ease, scan the skies to find repose.
Artists paint their lovely pictures, not a tint of beauty sealed.
There are none revealing charms worthy lives always must yield.
Neither mystic mirth nor art replaces principles of truth.
The way is clear, the star just gleams, we are yet in days of youth.*

Senior Class History

IN THE fall of the year nineteen hundred and twenty-seven, one hundred and sixty-nine boys enrolled as freshmen in Wofford College; four years later eighty-two of them were graduated. Thus tersely can be recounted a history of some of the happiest hours we ever expect to spend,—and some of the most miserable. During the past four years we have run the gamut of human emotions: we have been joyful, we have been sad; we have been exultant, we have been downcast; we have climbed the heights, we have explored the depths; we have lived, loved, and laughed; and now, with sinking hearts, we contemplate our matriculation into the greater College of Learning—Life.

Shortly after we entered, we chose Leland Jackson as chairman and later as president of the Freshman Class. As Freshmen we bent our every effort to learn and cultivate within ourselves the traditions and customs which are such an integral part of Wofford College. The success or failure of our efforts must be judged by the future. We entered heartily into every phase of college life and well did we succeed. Our football team was exceptionally good, and on the diamond we were able to force the other freshman teams in the state to hail us as State Champions.

W. L. Watkins was elected president of the Sophomore Class. This year saw us become very sophomorical, and we began to wonder if there were any need of our continuing our college career; we almost came to the conclusion that there was nothing more for us to learn. However, after a summer of rubbing elbows with the world, and after a series of conferences with our parents, we decided that perhaps we could absorb enough to warrant another two years at college, and we returned with a determination to finish the course.

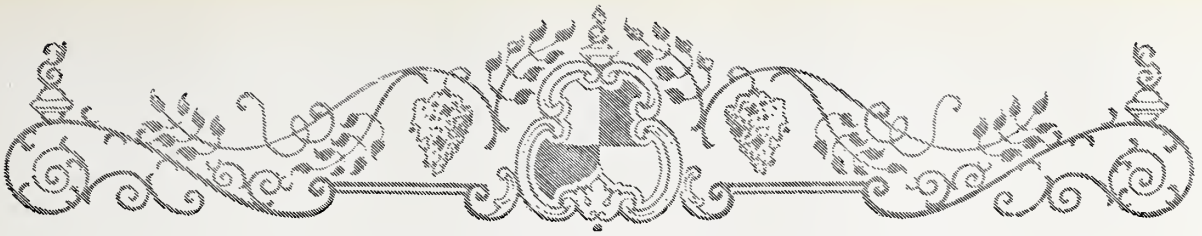

We elected M. A. Owings to guide us through our Junior year. It was during this year that we received an inkling of the fact that perhaps we did not know all that is to be known. This idea was rather startling at first, but we soon buckled down in serious effort to remedy the defect. We also found time to distinguish ourselves in athletics, three of the four members of the tennis team belonging to our class, and with Lorin King as our contribution to the mythical All-State football eleven. In basketball and baseball we also did our part.

M. A. Owings and A. M. Moseley were elected heads of the Student Body and the Honor System, respectively, and we selected B. S. Hall to occupy the presidency of the Senior Class. With these efficient and trustworthy leaders we settled down to a year of ease before setting out in the cold, cruel world to seek our fortunes. But alas! our beloved teachers seemed not to have heard of the axiom that Seniors are not supposed to have to study. However, we can say that we have met the enemy and have not been entirely defeated. We are still struggling.

To a biased historian attempting to make an impartial judgment, the Class of Nineteen Thirty-one appears to be a normal, one might say a mediocre one. We have our outstanding men; every class has them. We have our failures; every class has them. We have our masters and our muffers; our mimes and our ministers; our Lotharios and our lovelorn; in short, in our class can be found men of every sort and description. Some of them we admire, some of them we love, but we hate to leave any of them. We have known them intimately for four short years and it is no easy thing to say good-bye. But it must be said; we have come to the parting of the way. Good Luck! Comrades!

O. C. WILSON, Historian.

Senior Class Prophecy

NOTHING is impossible! How true this seems to be when I reflect upon the latest achievements in science and invention in all fields. In 1900 the people laughed at the idea of a heavier-than-air craft—then came the aeroplane. In 1910 the people scoffed at the idea of transmission of speech and music through the air—then came the radio. Everything possible has been invented. But, no! Yearly the radio has been improved, until the latest model can reproduce words that have been spoken in any age. With a little concentration on any person, the electricity of our body immediately produces the picture of the person of whom we are thinking, and the radio picks up his words—the modern form of telepathy in the year 1952.

Who can fathom the mind through its devious courses? When I sat at home in the late afternoon, in the latter part of the year 1952, my mind suddenly turned to my college days. It was such an afternoon as the one on which our last football game was played. It was then that I began to wonder what the other boys were doing—those that finished in the Class of '31. My thoughts were interrupted by the evening newspaper, which fell near my chair. I picked up the paper, and on the front page was a picture of a very familiar person standing at the side of his rocket plane. It was Charlie Gasque, an old roommate of mine. He had broken all records by making a non-stop flight around the world. This at first seemed impossible, but after reading what the editor had to say about the new rocket plane, I found out that Herbert Spell and Jimmie Chiles, who had continued their study of Chemistry at Boston Institute of Technology after leaving Wofford, had discovered the gas by which this powerful plane was propelled; and of course they had been given due credit for Charlie's success.

Turning to the sports section of the paper, I noticed that Alabama, coached by Leland Jackson, was well on its way to another Southern Conference Championship. I also saw where Bill Moody had renewed his contract with the New York Giants, and had signed up Shockley Hall and John Parham as his star pitchers. The sports writer seemed to think that this augured a continuation of the success that the Giants had been having on the diamond. The theatrical section of the paper informed me that Lorin King was preparing to produce his Follies of 1953, and that Lorin was being daily hailed as the fitting successor of Flo Ziegfeld. He is being ably assisted by Carlisle King.

After reading the success of these graduates of the Class of '31, I turned to my Electric Telepathic Radio to see what the other members of my class were doing. The first person to appear on the screen was Johnnie May, who, as chief justice of South Carolina, was congratulating another of my old classmates, Halsey Gleanon, on being elected governor of South Carolina. By the side of the newly elected governor stood his two campaign managers. I was very much surprised to find that they were Myles Whitlock and "Lon" Rushton. I was so very elated at seeing these friends of mine occupying such high places in the world that I decided to turn off my radio and go to see a moving picture. On the way to the show, I learned from my wife that the leading actor was Bill Wofford, with "Baby" Livingston playing the part of the comedian. While at the show I saw through the news reel that Carlisle Bethea and Albert Kinsey had just returned to the States from a tour of the Orient, where they had been making speeches in the interest of prohibition.

As I left the theatre, I was very much surprised to meet Abner Stockman and Jimmie Thomasson. We talked a long time about the boys of '31. I was gratified to find that Stockman and Thomasson had been recently appointed joint managers of the Southern Division of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company. I learned from these boys that Walter Bagwell had been elected to the chair of Economics at the University of North Carolina. They also told me that Tom Lawton and Gerald Michaux had just established themselves in a law firm in New York, where they were fast becoming famous corporation lawyers. The greatest surprise I received was when Stockman told me that "Jake" Owings and O. C. Wilson had recently been placed on the newly created tariff commission. Then Thomasson told me that Joe Hood and John Terry Poole were the new owners of the Elite, our favorite place of standing to admire "Converse" when we were at Wofford.

It had been so long since I had seen these classmates, and they were so anxious to know what the other boys were doing, that I found no trouble in persuading them to forget their cares and troubles, and to go with me back to my radio. The first turn of the dial brought before our eyes a picture of romantic Spain, and whom should we see but Keith Grant, Harold Miller, A. B. Cochran, and Levi Worrell singing a dreamy waltz, accompanied on the guitar by none other than S. B. Harper. In the background we could clearly see their managers, Hubert Latimer and Guyton McLeod. Afraid to look any longer on this spot, we turned to the great city of New York where we found Bernard Foster and Jim Ferguson discussing on a large scale the subject of advertising, which they had made their occupation. Their conversation soon wandered from advertising to some of their friends, whom they had just heard from. We heard them mention "Doc" Moseley, Clyde Nelson, and Eugene Gibson, all of whom have become eminent newspaper editors. We also found that Clyde Harrelson had complete charge of newspaper distribution for the entire city of Washington. Through the course of this conversation, we learned that "Deacon" Reese was a Bishop of the M. E. Church, South, and was now presiding over this state, being assisted by John Justus, E. V. Peele, and Fleetwood Baker as presiding elders. As teachers of psychology in one of our leading Southern Institutions, we found Cecil Bruce and Henry Herbert.

As we sat thus interested, our thoughts and memories were interrupted by newsboys shouting out their call, "Extra, extra!"

"Let's see what that is," remarked Stockman. I ran to the front door and bought a paper. "The Greatest Engineering Achievement of Mankind Just Completed," was the glaring headline that struck my eye. Reading on aloud to my companions, we found that Carlisle Reed and Mackie Breeden, the eminent engineers of our class, had just completed the building of a huge hotel with the height of the tower of Babel and the massiveness of a pyramid. Due credit was given to Floyd Arant and John Bennett, the architects.

"That's fame for those boys," "Tootsie" remarked.

Looking further through the paper, which happened to have a sport section, I noticed that Pink King had just returned from hunting "dears" in quite a few countries. He had bagged quite a number, being recognized as the greatest big game hunter in the world.

Turning back to my radio, we noticed a huge electric locomotive balanced by a gyroscope, and running along a single huge rail. We watched it as it passed, and on the last car in huge yellow letters we read, "T. C. King, President of the Southern Railroad." "And I happen to know that he had Hart Booth as chief engineer for him," Stockman remarked.

The scene changes as we turn our thoughts to Paul Bennett and Harold Hammett—we gasp with astonishment—a wedding ceremony is being performed—from the conversation of the bystanders, we learn that Bennett and Hammett own all the land in upper Spartanburg County, and that Bennett is acting as best man at Hammett's second wedding, which Rufus Glenn, pastor of Central Methodist Church, is solemnizing. "Rather surprising," "Tootsie" said.

The radio makes an odd sound, and there comes the droning sound of an aeroplane motor. We see a huge new model plane fly through the air and land at Spartanburg. Louis Johnson, president of the Johnson International Passenger Company, flies the plane to bring two of his old classmates, Johnson Hamer and Ed Jeffries, to Spartanburg. These two cleaned up millions playing the stock market (they had to play something) and spent their time between Paris, The Riviera, Monte Carlo, and Rio de Janeiro. They had stopped to look over the school and to leave a few "simoleons" for its improvement. We listen attentively; Louis Johnson says that Lowell Christopher will become president of Kinney and Christopher Coffee Company within a short time. He tells them also that Venon Brazeale is out West recuperating from over-work as a salesman of Lincolns, and a breach-of-promise suit incurred by too frequent use of telephones.

As we think of Johnny McKewn, a drug store comes into view. "The McKewn Chain Drug Company of Branchville," is written in huge letters across the front. Johnny is perfectly bald and happy, having married the woman of his heart's desire.

A huge oil derrick rises into view—suddenly oil gushes from it and we see C. R. McDowell dancing around. He has struck oil in Alaska. Bill Hawn, his business partner, embraces him, filled to overflowing with joy—two more of our class who have struck it rich. Into the picture walked a man dressed in white linen with a pith helmet. Imagine our surprise when it turned out to be Claude McMillan, a doctor spending two years in research work in the heart of Africa. He presented such a ludicrous figure that we all had to laugh.

A peal of jazz music comes to our ear. "Let's hear that; it sounds good to me," from "Tootsie." "Gene Petty's Orchestra playing from the Ritzy Hotel, New York," came the voice over the radio.

"That sounds good," said "Tootsie." "Let's go to a dance." My guests departed to dance and I was left alone.

I was so absorbed in the great news that my radio was bringing that it was hard for me to stop until I knew what every member of the Class of '31 was doing. The next scene was the studio at Station W. S. P. A. The announcer presented to his radio fans Francis Troy, who, after completing four years of work at Lowell University in the study of astronomy, had discovered a planet even more foreign than the distant Pluto. He made a very short speech and bade his radio friends good night.

As I turned the dial to pick up another station, a familiar voice came to me. It was none other than "Speedy" Stimpson, as radio announcer of K. D. K. A., introducing J. U. Smith, who was president of Westinghouse Electrical Company. He told us that J. M. Sprawls and J. D. Rogers were working together in his laboratory and had discovered the direct essentials of perpetual motion. Smith also said that it was partly through the influence of John Speake, who was a colonel in the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army, that this experiment had been perfected. As I turned off my radio, I felt a hand on my shoulder. I turned around to find L. A. Rogerson, who was then on his way to Nashville, Tenn., to assume his duties as Dean of Vanderbilt. He said that it was with great pleasure that he went there, for he would be associated with two of our classmates, Tom Taylor, who was head of the Law School, and E. E. Turnage, who was associate professor of Psychology.

It is impossible for me to predict the future of our friend, A. E. Toney. His future lies within the hands of his charming wife.

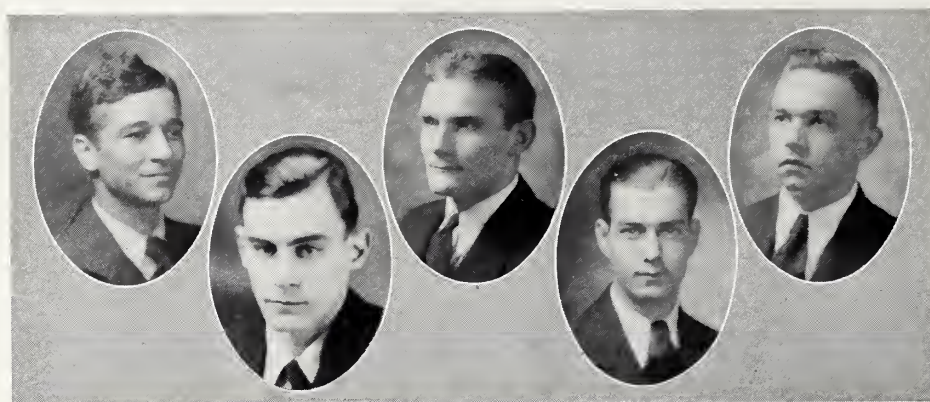

This is the future of the Class of '31 of Wofford College as the prophecy of this Class reveals itself. So let it be!

W. E. WILLIS, Prophet.

Junior Class History

E, the Juniors of '31, began the weary and toilsome pilgrimage to fame and success at sunrise in the fall of '28, as a band of one hundred and twenty-four pioneers.

We trudged along through rain and sunshine, ever loyal to each other and to our Alma Mater, under the guiding hand of C. H. Humphries, President; J. A. Bennett, Vice-President; J. G. McLeod, Secretary; J. H. Hamer, Treasurer; and J. C. Smiley, Historian. Finally we cast aside the cloak of "greenness," inherited by all freshmen; and as the sun gradually rose in the heavens, we stepped into our Sophomore year.

Under the leadership of J. C. Smiley, President; R. H. Taylor, Vice-President; H. G. Patterson, Secretary; W. K. Rogers, Treasurer; and F. F. Limehouse, Historian, we succeeded in passing the many obstacles during our second year of experience. Our class was well represented in every college activity. In all forms of athletics the Sophomores were near the top. In the I. R. C., Glee Club, Pi Kappa Delta, and Chi Beta Phi we were well represented. After a successful year we gladly gave our places to the Freshmen. We now find ourselves, as the sun begins to sink, occupying the third and next to the last period of our college career. Although a few members of our band have turned back, we still have a majority of the original number.

As Juniors, we elected the following men as officers: G. T. Myers, President; F. F. Limehouse, Vice-President; J. B. Ferguson, Secretary; O. B. Willis, Treasurer; and P. M. Widenhouse, Historian.

We, the Freshmen and Sophomores of yesterday and the Seniors of tomorrow, give a word of encouragement to those following us. We know that their path will be rugged, but along with their trials they will have joy and happiness.

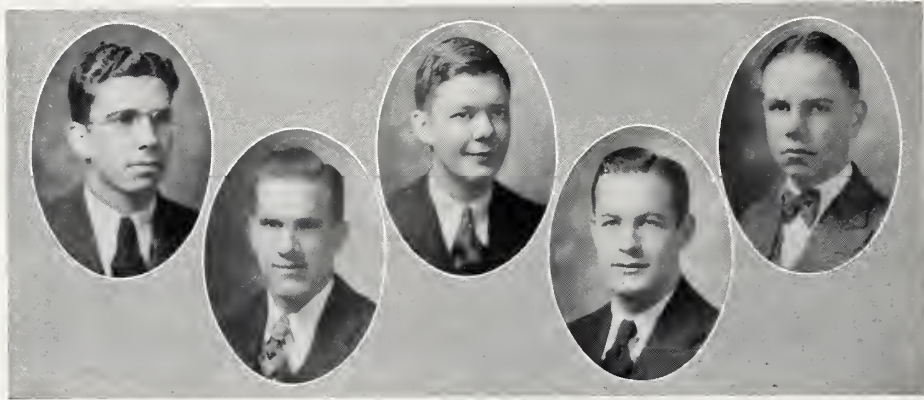

Next year will be one filled with joy, yet mingled with sorrow; for, as the sun sinks below the horizon, we must leave dear old Wofford, never to return. We will have finished our journey and will settle in new regions inhabited by new people. But, at the same time, we feel that it is our duty to pass on and give our places to those who follow us.

Sophomore Class History

SEPTEMBER 10, 1929, may be of no unusual importance, but for one hundred and thirty youths, who for the first time stepped on the Wofford Campus, it is a day of paramountcy in their memory. On that day we landed at college in full bloom of rathood and immediately began to spy out the territory into which we had suddenly found ourselves thrown.

No doubt, this class will be remembered for the part it took in athletics. No other class played so conspicuous a part in football and basketball as did the Class of '33.

To guide us through our freshman year we chose:

W. H. MCKEE President
ELIOT BENNETT Vice-President
R. E. ALEXANDER Secretary
JACK MONROE Treasurer
R. W. SPEARS Historian

Being newly made sophs, we made ourselves acquainted with the freshmen, better known as "Rat Newboys." After making sure that none of the "newboys" had been slighted, we retired to the small life at Wofford.

For our leaders, we chose:

E. K. HARDIN President
H. W. KINGMAN, JR. Vice-President
H. H. HUTSON Secretary
T. K. COGSWELL Treasurer
C. P. JACKSON Historian

After all, we are only sophomores and have had a hard time, since everybody is down on us, because of the proverbial tales spread on the second-year men. Even one of our worthy professors has said, that we know not and know not that we know not. But there is one thing that we do know, and that is that we are the best class at Wofford today.

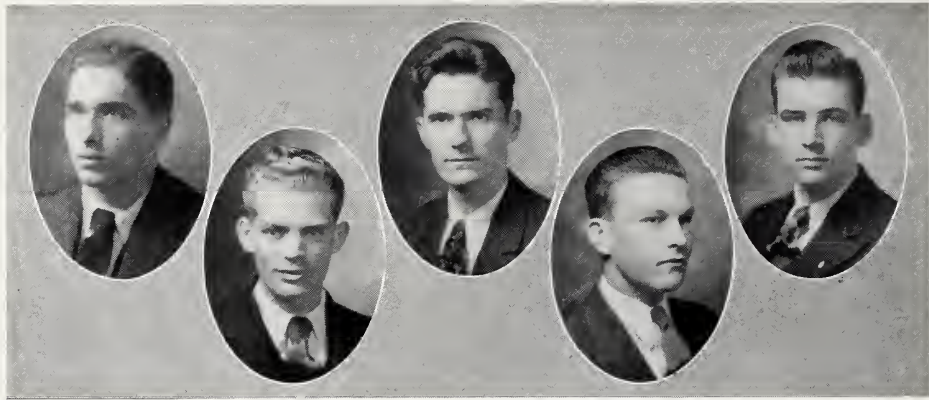

Our class has produced several of our best football players, several of our best basketball players, and sophs have taken a prominent part in the other college activities. Our class is not afraid of work, and always stands for fairness and honesty. We are a good class, even if we must "toot our own horn." So make way for the Wofford Sophomores of '33.

Freshman Class History

HE candle flickers. Shadows dance. In the gloom, dim figures are barely discernible, moving slowly about the dusky room. At first it is impossible to determine their identity. On a closer scrutiny, it is discovered that we are those figures. But it all seems a dream. In this dream, we appear to be thinking, thinking of and living again the four years we spent in high school. To what avail were those high-school years? Their course cannot be retraced. We now realize it. In our reflections, are we justifiably proud of what we have accomplished, or are we regretful of what we have left undone? A thousand regrets cannot erase or blot a single line of our high-school record.

"The moving finger writes, and having writ moves on . . ."

So with the past passed, and the future yet to be, we entered Wofford College. How many of us paused to visualize the day, at the end of the four years, which lay ahead of us—the day on which we would again review our handiwork with credit or censure? How many of us that day back in September realized that vital choices were to be made then or never—choices that would decide the course of our sojourn at Wofford? Did we choose wisely? Evidently it has taken a year for some of us to fully appreciate the value of a good start.

But let us meditate upon what we, as a class, have accomplished this first year. How many lessons have we learned in that hardest of all studies—Life? How many lessons have we learned on the athletic field? in the classroom? in our contact with others?

Each of us understands and is familiar with the sinking feeling which overtook us—the lowest of all species of humanity—when addressed by one of the lords of the universe, the upper-classmen. Species is the correct word, for in the eyes of the lords, we vassals were just a mixed herd of strange animals thrown together under the name of Freshmen—for no apparent reason except to respond to their every bidding. One of the favorite phrases of the upper-classmen was the terrifying, "Hi, Freshman!" We knew what was meant by that dreaded call.

In that Golden Age, when we were high-school Seniors, we thought we were somebody. But when we got to Wofford, information as to who we really were was cheerfully and forcefully given. However, all this homage to the upper-classmen has taught us that humility is sometimes a virtue.

This serfdom began early last fall. Some of us have been promised our freedom from the ranks of Freshmen in June. Those who have been negligent in their work are not so fortunate.

In football, the 1930 edition of the Terrier Pups had only a mediocre season. In basketball, the Freshmen had an extraordinarily successful season. Excellent men were produced both in football and basketball. Men—skillful and valuable players, fighting for every yard, for every point, yet the embodiment of sportsmanship. Men, trustworthy and loyal, clean in mind and body. Again we have learned lessons of life—lessons on how to get along with our fellow beings—lessons that will prove to be priceless in later years.

In the classroom, the professors in most cases won by a K. O. in the first round. Some few students fought to a no-decision verdict, while a small group eked out last-minute victories. A still smaller group had the situation well in hand, taking every round.

Early in the new year, officers were elected. Under the guidance of Herbert Hucks, our president, we feel that we have succeeded in much. Jack Brady was elected vice-president; Tom Diseker, secretary; Grover Eaker, treasurer; and Ye Author, historian.

Thus we sailed the rough, wind-swept seas of the Freshman year—seas fraught with danger; an upper-classman riding every wave. And now we stand at another port, looking forward to still other ports beckoning across still other seas—those of the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior years.

Varsity Football

As we look back, we see Snyder Field on a bright September morning. Thirty-odd huskies dot the field. Wofford's initial football practice is under way.

Among the old men back are: Captain Gleaton, King, Rushton, Breeden, Speake, Myers and Carroll in the line, together with Leland Jackson, Willis, and Fox in the back-field. Graduated from last year's freshmen we find Curtis Jackson, Tatum, Alexander, Monroe, Nantz, Scott, and Knotts. With these men as a nucleus with which to work, Coaches Scaffé and Frost begin the task of moulding a football machine.

For two long weeks each morning and afternoon finds the squad at work. At this point the board of strategy begins ironing out the kinks and smoothing off the rough edges in preparation for the opening game with Newberry.

Against Newberry the Terrier offense clicked smoothly behind perfect interference, rolling up forty-three points to their opponents' nothing.

On the following week-end Clemson's Tigers proved too much for Coach Scaffé's charges. Although playing a losing game, Wofford fought gamely to the last, losing thirty-two to nothing.

High Point's panther was our next foe. After the dust had cleared from Snyder Field, Wofford was on the long end of a twelve to six score.

Journeying all the way to Williamsburg, the Terriers gave a good account of themselves in their first night game.

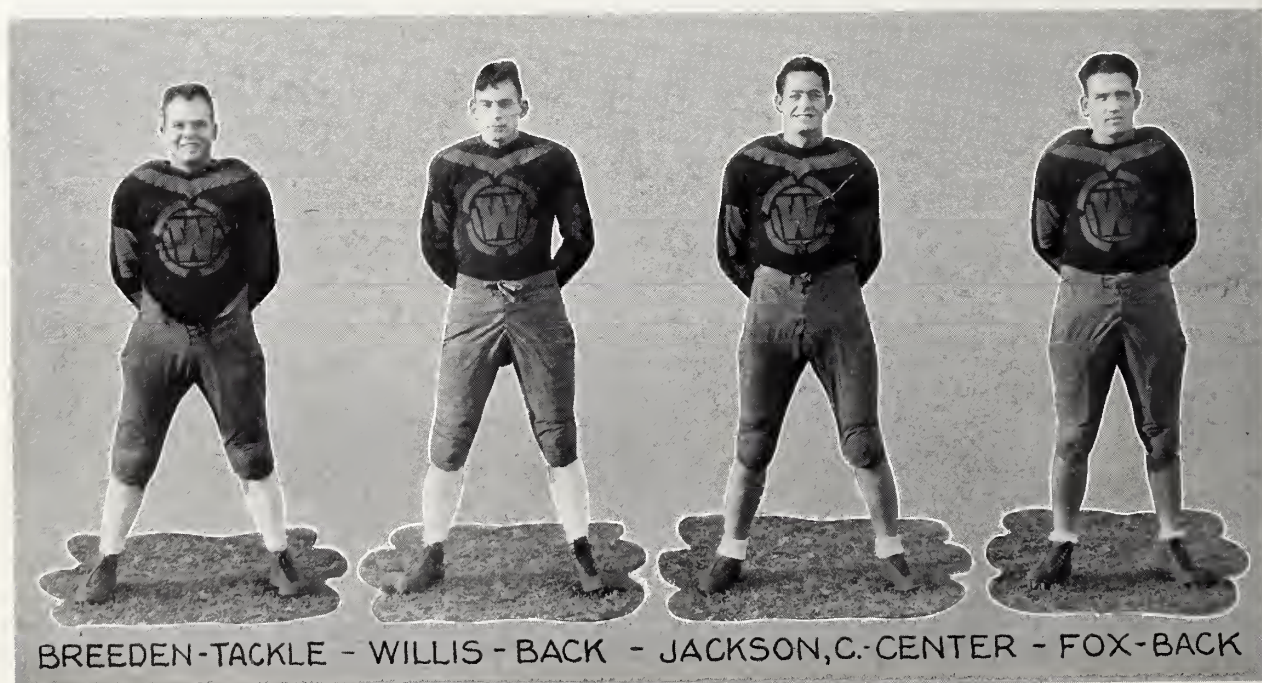

JACK FROST
Assistant Varsity Coach

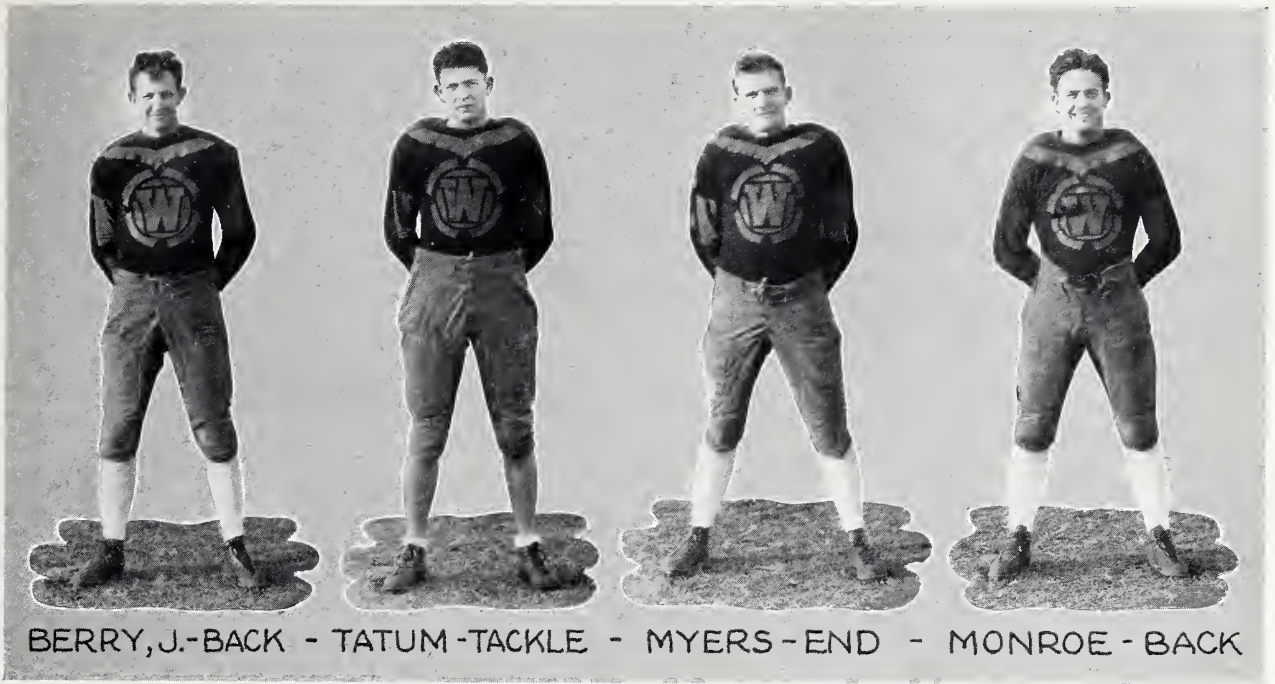

Two galloping ghosts in the persons of Maxey and Scott were the difference between victory and defeat for the visitors.

The Presbyterian College aggregation, which turned out to be the dark horse of the S. I. A. A., furnished the opposition after the William and Mary game. Against a sluggish Terrier team Jimmy Green and Company amassed eighteen points to our nothing.

On Home Coming Day Wofford played host to the Blue Devils from Duke University. Before the largest crowd of the year we rose to great heights by holding the conquerors of the Navy to a fourteen to nothing score. Led by the defensive work of Lorin King and the beautiful kicking of Fox, Wofford's team played inspired football.

Alabama was the scene of our next battle. The Plainsmen of Auburn, a vastly improved team over the past few years, took us into camp thirty-two to nothing.

Next came Davidson. On Richardson Field the Wofford eleven did not play the brand of ball which they had proved themselves capable of. Consequently the score read: Davidson, 13; Wofford, 0.

Our old and formidable foe from Greenville came over following the Davidson encounter. Here again Wofford showed its strength. A blocked punt on one occasion and later on a fumble gave Furman two touchdowns in what would have been a tie game.

Coach Jakie Todd next brought his Seceders of Erskine to Spartanburg. Heavy favorites before the game, the Terriers became over-confident and did not give a satisfactory exhibition of football. Suffice it to say that the boys from Due West went home Saturday night with a seven to nothing victory tucked under their arms.

The last game, which was one of the best games of the season from the spectator's point of view, was against the Citadel. Here again King, together with Willis and Fox, led the way. Citadel's score came as a result of a long pass while Wofford made hers by a series of brilliant plays. Citadel's point after the touchdown proved to be the deciding factor of the game. All in all it was Wofford's day, for we amassed a total of thirteen first-downs to Citadel's two and in every way out-played the Charlestonians.

Although it seems that we had ample material and certainly the best of coaches, we did not have a successful season. Just why we made such a poor showing in the "lost and won" column will remain a mystery.

FRESHMAN SQUAD

Freshman Football

Soon after putting their feet of Wofford soil the freshman football men were in uniform and ready to begin practice. Coach Charlie Lutz with the aid of Assistant Coach Fred Nash soon had the men going their paces.

While the season did not turn out to be as successful as was hoped, yet the primary purpose of first year football was served—that is the development of material for the Varsity. The men who showed the best prospects of developing into letter men were Bouknight, Funderburk, and Brady in the backfield together with Quattlebaum and Allen in the line.

Next year these men should capably fill vacancies in the varsity ranks caused by graduation. Out of the remaining men on the squad at least four or five should develop into real football players in the next three years.

The season opened with a fiery, fighting Terrier Pup opposed by a vicious, savage Wildcat. After the biting, scratching, growling, and roaring had subsided, the Pups triumphantly walked away with a 6 to 0 victory over Davidson.

Contented with their success, the Freshmen did not show their former zest when they encountered at home the boys from Carlisle. They were slightly over-confident and therefore did not play the type of ball of which they were capable. The determined Prepmen were bent on a victory at any cost. They played hard and fast, soon crediting themselves with eighteen points. The Pups then realized that it was no weak foe that opposed them on their road to victory. Immediately they began their task earnestly and fought nobly to the end, admitting defeat by a score of 18 to 0.

Freshman Football

Remorse entered the hearts of the Terriers. They were disgruntled and dissatisfied because of defeat. Their pride had been hurt; therefore they trained all week with a determination to beat P. C. By this time the Pups had evolved into a smooth-working eleven with a second team of good substitutes. With a sole purpose in mind, the Terriers went to Clinton for a battle. Early in the game they saw their hopes being fulfilled. They took the offensive from the start and never allowed the young Blue Hose of P. C. the semblance of a chance to score. The second team, which had been substituted, continued to work for the glory of Wofford. They held their ground until the final whistle blew giving them a victory of 31 to 0.

The next week the midget Terrier team encountered the husky Furman Yearlings on Snyder Field. The sheer weight and man-power of the "Breeze" robbed the Pups of a victory. With the courage of a hero, they battled until the finish and bowed in defeat to the boys from Greenville.

The closing game of the season was staged in Newberry with the Indian Papooses. The teams were evenly matched and anxious for a scrap. The game swayed back and forth. In the end the Freshmen from Newberry were awarded victory. We charge this up to Fate, or whatever is responsible for those inexplicable things which will happen.

Their defeats this year will bring them victories next year and their successes will be an incentive for still greater achievements.

Dedication of New Stands

The new stadium so generously donated by Mr. William A. Law of Philadelphia, a Wofford alumnus, was formally dedicated on October the twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred and thirty. The occasion was the Wofford-Duke football game.

At the intermission between the halves, Dr. Snyder opened the dedication with an expression of the deep gratitude of the College for the stadium, for which there had been such an urgent need. He then introduced Mr. John A. Law of Spartanburg, a brother of the donor.

Mr. Law expressed his brother's regrets at not being able to attend the exercise. He also expressed his hope that Wofford would continue her progress already begun in the athletic department.

Dr. Snyder introduced Dean W. H. Wannamaker of Duke University, a Wofford graduate, who brought greetings from a sister institution. He emphasized the close feeling of unity existing between Duke and Wofford.

This Home Coming event attracted thousands of people. The exhibition presented by the Wofford R. O. T. C. Unit and the Duke Band proved a fitting climax to the dedication.

BASEBALL

No Baseball At Wofford This Year

II

The Athletic Board has deemed it expedient to discontinue intercollegiate baseball at Wofford for the 1931 season. For several years this sport has not been received sufficiently by patrons to make it self-supporting. Due to the very adverse financial condition of baseball "fans," both far and near, it has been thoughtfully concluded that it would be indiscreet to put out a team this year.

An outlet for the desire on the part of the students to participate in this sport will be found in intermural baseball.

Blue Key

Blue Key is a national honorary fraternity which purposes to draw together, in each college or university where a chapter is located, the leaders of student life. The founders of the organization believe that such groups of leaders, unifying and relating the administration of all campus activities, are highly effective instruments of service.

THE TERRIER BOOSTERS, Wofford's chapter, claims its right to exist only on a basis of service to the College. The chapter, whose membership is limited to Juniors and Seniors, not to exceed thirty-five in number, meets twice monthly at luncheon. Election to Blue Key is considered a signal honor.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club, Wofford's only society to honor excellence in scholarship, was organized in 1922, the second of its kind in the South. The high standards raised by the local organization make membership the most desirable of campus honors. Maintenance of an average of ninety throughout the college course is one qualification for membership in the club, which is limited to forty men. At its fortnightly meetings subjects of international import are treated in well-planned programs.

ACTIVITIES

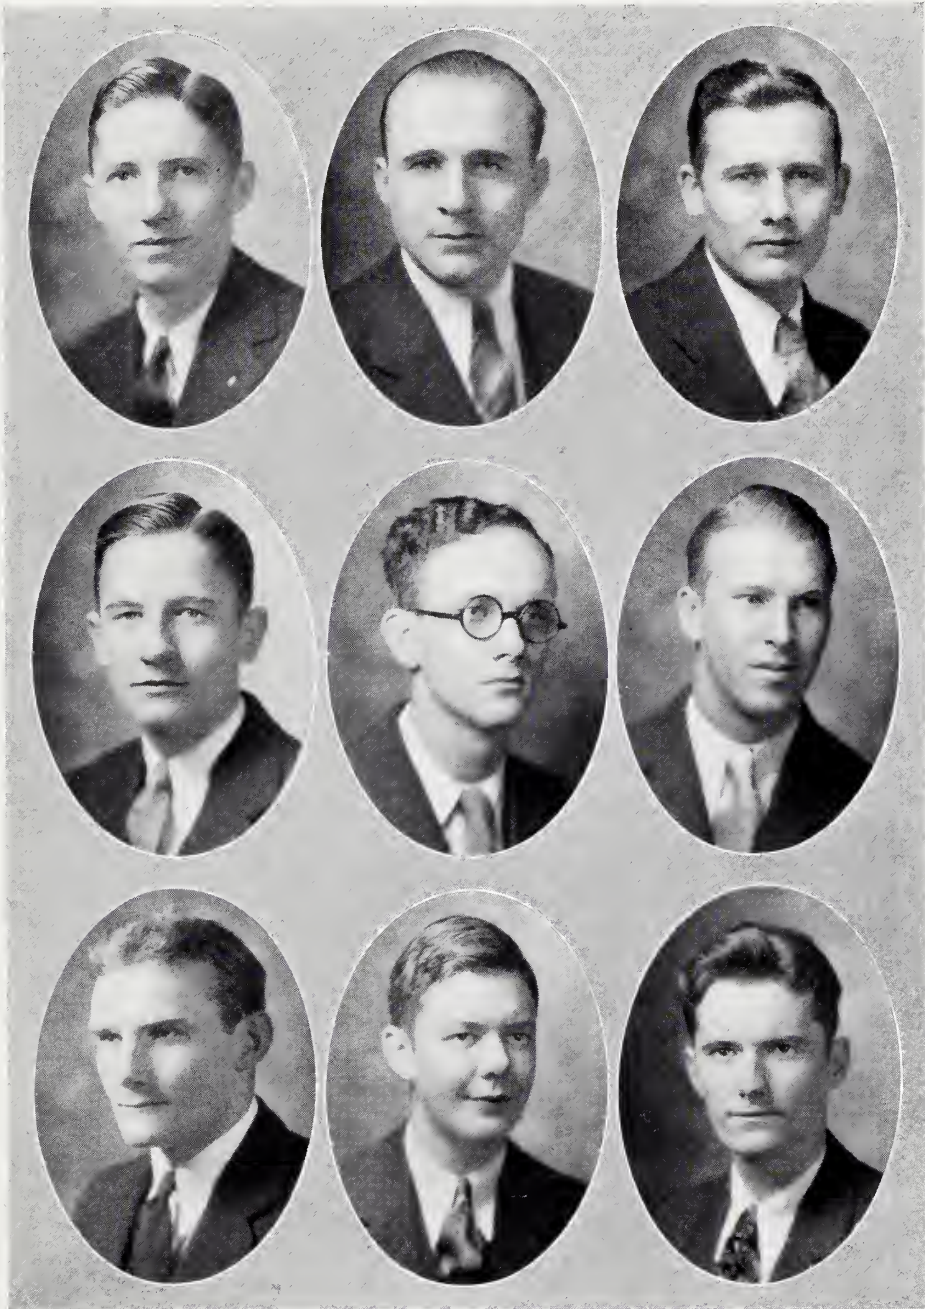

Under a new constitution, adopted in the spring of 1926, the executive and judicial functions of the Student Government are embodied in the Student Council, an ex-officio group of nine men made up of the president of the Honor System, the vice-president, secretary, and treasurer of the Student Body, and the presidents of the Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman Classes.

It is the duty of the Student Council to try all cases involving questions of honor, to call and preside over elections of class and Student Body officers, and to attend to that part of the business of the Student Body which cannot be transacted at the monthly mass meetings.

The Council meets weekly to consider questions of interest to the Student Body. The limited size and democracy of election of this group contribute to its efficiency and representative character.

The Lyceum at Wofford ranks among the best in the South. It furnishes the opportunity to the students of hearing men who loom large in the public eye as leaders of both thought and action. It has been of great service to the students in refining their taste and broadening their interests.

During the thirty years of its existence the Lyceum has brought to Spartanburg Lyman Abbott, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Van Dyke, William Jennings Bryan, Booker T. Washington, Lorado Taft, Champ Clark, Montraville M. Wood, Lew Sarett, Charlie Paddock, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross and a number of others of national reputation.

A student committee is elected annually by the student body to co-operate with the faculty manager, Professor J. A. Gamewell, in arranging the program and performances.

With the opening of the school year, there were but few of the older members back. However, several new men were taken in and this brought the club back to its normal size. The club meets once a month, at which interesting programs are given.

At the time this goes to press an itinerancy is being planned. The play chosen for production is Gilbert Emery's "The Hero." Another play will be given toward the latter part of the year.

Pi cast of Alpha Psi Omega is represented at Wofford by the Stratford Players. New men will be initiated soon.

The Little Theatre of Spartanburg has graciously consented to furnish the ladies for feminine roles. Dr. John W. Harris has kindly agreed to act as the director.

Fraternity Row At Wofford

A MODERN GREEK ORACLE

(For the benefit of those who might some day wish to forget themselves and lose all self-respect, and apply for membership in some of the numerous organizations, we hereby publish this information concerning each one, with entrance requirements.)

K Σ—Entrance Requirements: Are you white? If not, are you nearly white?

This club is kept on the map by its two social tea-hounds, namely: Swint Gramling and J. T. Riley. Without these two dudes we are afraid the social standing of Kappa Sig would be somewhat lessened. It is amazing, to us, how this club survives, but you can't tell to what extremes some people will go just to wear a badge.

Δ Σ Φ—Entrance Requirements: Save fifty chewing-gum wrappers and be able to control one vote.

Socially, they are not so hot, but their social standing is not so bad when you take in consideration that they have to put up with Tootsie Stockman and Tommy Stringfield. Jim Thomasson is right there too, with his smiling countenance. These boys have had to put up with a lot from Walter Bagwell, but they are lucky—he finishes this year after five years of strenuous labor.

Σ A E—Entrance Requirements: Just give us your name. (After looking these boys over you can easily tell that this is the only entrance requirement.)

This has been an unusually hard year for the S. A. E.'s—the freshman class only consisted of 90 men—this was tough on the poor boys. You know their idea of a good frat is one with a membership as large as the Elks. This can be seen very plainly if you notice the number of freshmen that they rush every year. Occasionally they catch a man off his guard and—plop—before he knows what's happened he has an S. A. E. pledge pin stuck on his coat lapel, but don't judge them too hard—they mean well. And—oh, yes—do we believe in evolution? Have a look at Hubert Latimer.

Π K Φ—Entrance Requirements: Is your name King?

If not, are you a preacher's son?

If you want to find a Pi Kap take a stroll to the Elite or to 347 East Main; they are surely to be at one or the other. This is the most exclusive lodge on the campus—in fact, so exclusive till they are excluded, and had to move out in town. But then after all they are not so stuck up—only recently we saw one talking to a Kappa Sig in broad daylight. "Jake" Owings is one of the "shining" lights of this galaxy of would-be shiners. His election to the presidency of the Student Body was the greatest accident of this kind in the history of the school. He is about the most important man he knows; but he has tried so hard to be somebody, so let's everyone give Jake a hand. (It is left to the reader's imagination as to where to give him this hand.) Confidentially, dear readers, this bunch of social tea-hounds are just a bunch of country boys putting on the high hat. Due to the law of average they have been getting a pledge or two lately, but after looking at Isom, Derrick, and Allen it's easy to see why.

Θ K N—Entrance Requirements: If the S. A. E.'s don't want you, we'll take you, "Little Boy."

If you don't want to graduate from Wofford without being a frat man, all you have to do is make out an application blank, filling in your good features and you are bound to be wearing a Θ K N pin before you get your sheepskin. But if you haven't any good features don't worry, they are very accommodating; the Θ K N's will stretch a point to accommodate a pledge candidate. They are the last words in conveniences. Look at Lowell Christopher and L. A. Rogerson—they are the examples of what we've just said.

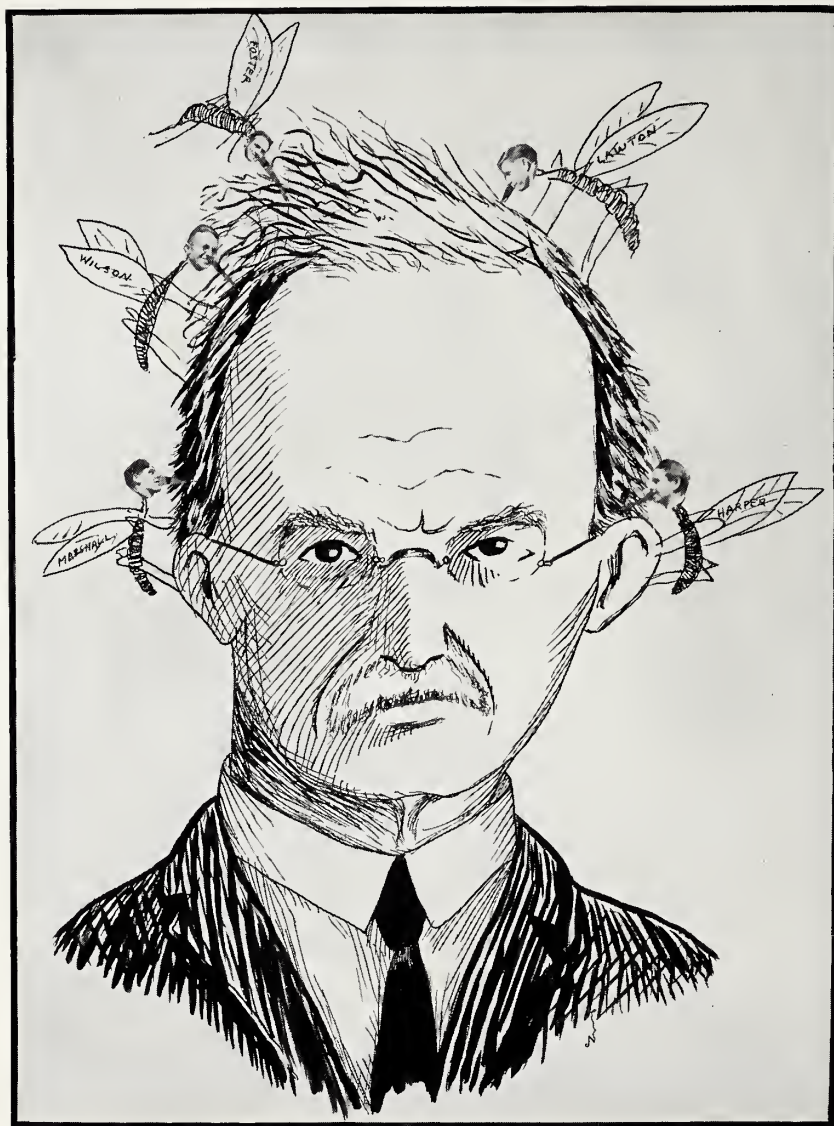

K A—Entrance Requirements: If you have sunk this low, don't worry about requirements.

Of all the nit-witted, simple-minded, bat-brained, insipid, putrid, embryonic, moronic, and hecolic organizations we can think of only K A or Ned Hill. You can tell a K A a mile off. To quiet the feeling of animosity between the North and the South after the Civil War, and to keep another one from breaking out, K A agreed not to put any chapters in the North, which is one thing the Yankees have to be thankful for. Judging by Delta, they must have agreed not to put any in the South also. We might add though that K A has more friends among the fraternities than any bunch on the campus, because they never pledge anyone that anybody else wants.

A A T—Entrance Requirements: Take off your coat and wash your hands. (For the benefit of those who aren't A A T's, the button is on the coat when it is returned to the victim. There ought to be a law!)

The Alpha Lambda Tau's are in a class all by themselves; they should be. They're a bad bunch. They don't ask a frosh to pledge in a nice, civil manner—they threaten him. If the A A T's discover a good candidate he has about as much chance of escaping them as a man has of not getting shot in Chicago. This is the country boy's haven. This is what they claim to be—they even have pictures of cows and chickens hanging on their walls to make the pledges feel at home. Ask John Bennett why he was in favor

Knotty and His Troubles

BRILLIANT CABARET DANCE IS ENJOYED BY MANY

Field House is thrown into ballroom. The Scene of the Dazzling Spectacle. Sixty chorus girls are present to make merry the event.

The field house was the scene of the greatest dance in the history of Spartanburg with this—the opening of a series of annual events of similar nature. The ballroom was decorated so as to represent the Show Boat of ye good ole days. Festoons of crepe were artistically arranged to represent the ropes and masts of the boat. By a special arrangement of reflecting and revolving lights the overhead was made to appear as a summer sky jeweled with myriads of stars with a lazy moon just peeping up, casting romantic hues upon the gaudy costumes, which were swaying to the torrid rhythm of Guy Lombardo's orchestra.

The guests were girls from the entire South. They came from Vassar, Sweet Briar, Agnes Scott, Converse, Brenau, University of Alabama, and many others. As an additional attraction sixty of George White's most beautiful chorus girls were doing their stuff to the intoxicating syncopation of the orchestra, while the couples sat at their tables sipping cocktail and looking on with delight.

Toward the latter part of the mirthful occasion the floor was cleared for an exhibition dance—Mr. F. G. Michaux dancing with Miss Ernestine Stanley. Michaux was regarded with envy, as he led with a technique which is difficult to describe, being a combination of the Dillon Shuffle and Tap. Everyone was spell-bound until suddenly he glided gracefully off the floor only to be met by a thunderous burst of applause.

A most spectacular gem of humor was exhibited by Lorin King and one of the leading chorus girls. As they were dancing, this charming dame tossed back her head of golden curls, and, looking languorously out of the depths of her eyes, murmured in a rather emphatic tone, "Do you know who you are dancing with?" With that she quickly broke loose, snapping her thumbs violently. "That for YOU," she scoffed, and with a reversed curtsy movement—"and that for your PAPA."

"Ah, ha!" cried Lorin, "PAPA gets the best of everything!"

It is also rumored that Jake Owings did some effective work with Jorothy Dordan, who, having a two-hour wait-over between trains at Spartanburg, was spied by Dennis and Herbert and brought to the gay event. As Jake and this fair damsel were walking down the gravel path leading from the field house he suggested parking in Dunc's open-air swing. Upon approaching and peeping through the vine: "Ah! Damn it!" exclaimed Jake, as he spied Cueball Harper and his Madam Queen whispering tender words of endearment. (We didn't find out his intentions.) Jake finally succeeded in finding a residing place for the time being in Pop Jackson's roadster. This activated much scandal on the campus and is still discussed with envy.

This was a distinct step forward in the social life of Spartanburg, an event of marked social distinction. There was color, gaiety, brilliance, and exuberance wide-spread. Memories of this glorious occasion will reign down through the ages as Wofford's most outstanding BLOWOUT.

of farm relief—he should be. He has to think of home sometimes.

A Ψ Ω—Entrance Requirements: If you can stand us, we can stand you.

This organization is not to be confused with the Epworth League or the B. Y. P. U.'s, especially on the week-ends. We are sure the Epworth League or B. Y. P. U.'s would never recover. There's many a slip between your freshman and senior years, and if you don't watch your step that slip will cost you a membership in the Alpha Upsilon Omega. Yes, they have taken advantage of many a green freshman.

(With apologies to a Russian Ballet.)
 Girlsy, boysky, peachy moonsky,
 Girlsy, boysky, heapsky spoonsky,
 Kissky, vodka, hugsykvitch—
 Whamsky, bamsky—roadster in ditch.

Dr. Rembert: "Why do you sit there and scratch your head?"

Ed. B. Lyles: "Because I'm the only one that knows it itches."

It won't do any good to spank a girl after she is sixteen, but it must be lots of fun.

Then there's the modest old maid who wouldn't undress with the Christian Observer in her room.

Tillie: "The professor has made me his private secretary. Do you think that I'll get any advances?"

Millie: "Lots of them, dearie."

"So your father is a Southern planter?"

"Yes. He's an undertaker in Atlanta."

Moonlight and Rosie's

Drunk to skunk: "Nice kitty, nice kitty; shay kitty, what cha been drinking?"

Some Suggestions to Freshmen

1. Don't believe anything you hear; you are at college now here truth is a stranger.
 2. Begin taking Physics as soon as possible, and you can pass more easily in your senior year.
 3. Don't try to see everything "Fish" sees. You will soon be wearing glasses.
 4. Take all the "R. E." you can, and you will not be bothered with re-exams.
 5. Don't let J. K. bluff you into paying your board. There are other things you need more.
 6. Take advantage of all holidays, and prepare your classes for your Soph year.
 7. When you return after Christmas, bring back a box of "Tampa Nuggets" for John Harris and a 'posum for Clink, and then take up all their subjects.
 8. Remember that the "Ritzy" is one of the sources of an education.
 9. Don't take P. T. Dancing will develop your muscles and is more sensational.
 10. Borrow all you possibly can. This is one of the best habits you can cultivate.
 11. Chew your gum softly in English class so that others will not be awakened.
 12. When you are up town, keep your eyes open or you will have people putting money in your hat.
 13. Get the correct time from the sun dial as soon as you arrive.
 14. Don't drink Coco-Cola. See one of the campus bootleggers and get more kick.
 15. No sensible man will go to the library. Read College Humor instead. It is more up-to-date.
 16. It pays to flunk on all your exams so that you can enjoy the holidays given for encores.
 17. Don't buy books; borrow them and use the money for dances.
 18. The radiators are not installed for heating; they are to hide all the trash in the room.
 19. Always display your high school medal. You might be able to fool some of the profs.
 20. Smoke freely in any of the buildings. They can't charge over three bucks if you are caught.
- Dr. Waller: "What's a liter?"
 Shorty Latimer: "An assortment of puppies."

F. F. Limehouse: "When I talk to you I have to feel for my words."

Angela Bowden: "Yeah! Well, you must think that I have them tatooed on me."

Men used to have all the courage, but the women are showing more backbone now.

Here is a Job for Somebody!

WANTED

A man for hard work and rapid promotion—a man who can find things to be done without the help of a manager and three assistants.

A man who goes to work on time in the morning and does not imperil the lives of others in an attempt to be the first off the job at night.

A man who is neat in appearance and does not sulk for an hour's overtime in emergencies.

A man who listens carefully when he is spoken to and asks only enough questions to insure the accurate carrying out of instructions.

A man who moves quickly and makes as little noise as possible about it.

A man who looks you straight in the eye and tells the truth every time.

A man who does not pity himself for having to work.

A man who is cheerful, courteous to everyone, and determined to make good.

This man is wanted everywhere. Age or lack of experience does not count. There isn't any limit, except his own ambition, to the number or size of jobs he can get. He is wanted in every big business.

Link these characteristics to an humble belief in Christ as his Redeemer and there is nothing but success here and life forever.
